

Candle March

Date: February 17, 2019

Location: University Campus

No. of Participants: 60

On February 16, 2019, in collaboration with the Mass Communication Department, the Social Club of Alexis organized a solemn event called the "Candle March." The march aimed to express remorse and solidarity following the tragic loss of 44 CRPF (Central Reserve Police Force) jawans in the Pulwama attack in Jammu and Kashmir.

The Candle March took place on the university campus, bringing together students, faculty, and staff members to pay tribute to the brave jawans who lost their lives in the attack. The event provided a platform for the university community to come together, share their grief, and demonstrate support for the affected families and the nation as a whole.

Participants assembled at a designated location, holding lit candles to symbolize unity, hope, and remembrance. The march proceeded in silence, with participants walking in an orderly manner, reflecting the somber atmosphere and the gravity of the occasion. The absence of words allowed for a collective expression of mourning and reverence for the fallen heroes.

As the Candle March progressed, participants carried placards and banners with messages of solidarity, peace, and support for the armed forces. The Mass Communication Department played a crucial role in documenting the event, capturing photographs and videos that would serve as a reminder of the collective stand taken by the university community.

The Candle March aimed to create awareness about the sacrifice and bravery of the CRPF jawans and to express gratitude for their service. It also served as a gesture of support for their families and a reminder of the importance of unity in the face of adversity.

The event successfully conveyed a message of remorse and empathy towards the loss suffered in the Pulwama attack. It demonstrated the university community's commitment to social responsibility and their dedication to standing in solidarity with the nation during challenging times.

The Candle March organized by the Social Club of Alexis in collaboration with the Mass Communication Department exemplified the spirit of student welfare and community engagement. The event highlighted the significance of recognizing and honoring the sacrifices made by the armed forces and reinforced the values of compassion, unity, and resilience among the university community.

Overall, the Candle March was a meaningful and impactful event that allowed the university community to come together, express remorse, and demonstrate support for the CRPF jawans and their families. The event served as a testament to the collective strength and empathy of the university community and showcased the importance of standing united in the face of adversity.
